

Daiichi Electronics Co., Ltd.
Notification of specification change

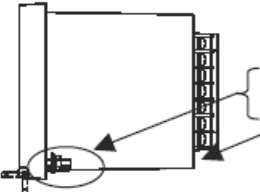

Date of issuance:	2006/6/14
Change notice No.	HRO-006-112e

Notification of specification change in conformity to RoHS directive

Please be informed that in order to make the plating of all our products compliant to RoHS directive, we changed it as follows. We hope that you will favor our products continuously.

- 1 Object model
- Electronic products
 - Electric indicating meter
 - Accessories for meter

2 Contents of change

	Before change	After change
1 Plating processing	Hexavalent chromium chromate treatment	Trivalent chrome chromate treatment.
2 Appearance color	Golden	Silver gray
3 Object part	Installation screws in four corners Flange nuts Terminal block setscrews, other fittings for product fixation and case metal plate were the objects. An example of product change (QLC-110)    <Changes> Installation screws in four corners Flange nut Terminal block setscrew    Before change After change   <Sample> Flange nut Left: before change (golden) Right: after change (Silver gray)
4 . Performance	There is no change in product performance.
5 . Method for identifying	There is no identification accompanying this change

3 Reason for change

To cut the sexivalent chrome as an aim for reduction of six environmental load substances in conformity with RoHS directive.
 A change of plating specifications is implemented accompanying this.

4 Time to switch over

Manufactured goods shall be changed accordingly form the lot made on Aug. 1, 2006 .
 Changeover of shipment shall be carried out sequentially as soon as present stock of conventional product has run out.
 Also, till the stock run out, please understand that sexivalent chrome product might be mixed with others by a product even after the approval.